CALGARY, Oct. 25.—Before hundreds of Calgary citizens, Mayor R. B. Bennett, named by Calgary's most famous citizen, came into his own Monday night. Greeted at the depot by a crowd which represented the judiciary, labor, business and professional men of Calgary, Mayor Bennett was given a greeting which seldom falls to the lot of any man. Still the greeting given him at the railway station in the afternoon ended in insignificance before the demonstration later in the evening when Mr. Bennett really came into his own.

In the afternoon, the depot was thronged with people. Mayor Bennett was given a warm welcome. He was given a warm welcome. He was given a warm welcome.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED BY RUMANIA GOVT.

Plot to Restore Carol To Throne Discovered, Is Claim

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The arrest in Rumania of M. Manolache, under-secretary of finance in the late Averescu cabinet, on charges of plotting the restoration of Carol, prince of Rumania, to the throne, caused a stir today in view of Carol's presence in Paris, and recently found a statement saying that he would not return to Rumania unless his country called him.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 25.—Martial law has been declared throughout Rumania as the result of the government's discovery of a plot to bring back the return of former Carol, prince of Rumania, who renounced his rights to the throne.

The government is declared to be the object of the plot which was revealed as the nation was celebrating the anniversary of King Michael, who made Rumania because of Carol's refusal.

TO POOL OR NOT TO POOL

Payment of the last instalment of the price of wheat of 1928 sold through the Pool has precipitated the annual debate as to whether the farmer who sold through that organization got a better return than the one who sold "on his own." Thus the Calgary Alberta plunges into an exhaustive calculation from which it emerges with the conclusion that the Pool has secured a crop of 3,000 bushels of No. 1 Northern in 1926 received for it a total of $6,570.41, while the non-pool farmer with a similar crop received on the average a total of $6,570.36.

The difference, $0.05, is a very substantial sum on a crop of that amount. Calculated it on the total yield of about 130,000,000 bushels, the spread claims between Pool prices and non-pool prices would run to more than $9,000,000. A sum of that magnitude is of very real importance to the farmers of the province, and hence to every one whose interests are interlinked with theirs. If the calculation is incorrect the Pool officials can hardly afford to let it go without pointing out the mistake and giving a plain statement of the facts.

MORE FIRE PROTECTION

Edmonton is offered a reduction in the key rate for insurance if certain additions to our fire fighting equipment are made. Provided the cost of the equipment, it is almost gone without saying that the additions will be made. In fact, the cost would have to be pretty large if the gain would not justify the outlay. Adequate protection against fire is cheap at almost any price. Protection not only reduces the rate of insurance, but in itself the best insurance that can be got. Probably no city in Canada has suffered less fire damage than Edmonton, the size and character of the city considered. The overwhelming proportion of the city is in continuous use, sometimes for days or weeks at a time. Our immunity has been largely due to the fact that we have had a vigilant fire brigade equipped with up-to-date appliances. The new appliances called for will make life and property safer everywhere in the city, besides cutting down the cost of providing against money loss in case of a fire.

THE AIRPLANE IN CANADA

In Edmonton and other centres throughout the Dominion there are being taken to organize branches of the Canadian Air League. This is an organization whose object is to encourage and promote the use of airplanes—and airplanes are being used by passengers, tourists and merchandise, as well as in the operation of government services. In the latter, the Canadian Air League leads the world, using planes for exploratory and survey work, in map-making, and in the patrol of forests for the prevention of fire damage. But in the use of the airplane for sense we have made little use as yet of the new carrier. Europe is networked with air-lines, over which passengers, mails and freight are carried, and in Canada the use of air mail service has been in operation for years. Canada has done practically nothing as yet to bring the plane—the dirigible—into use as a business appliance.

The Dominion cannot afford to continue to lag behind its contemporaries and competitors and to do without the advantages which these find in the wise use of the airplane as a means of travel and transportation. If this service is needed in Europe, where distances are comparatively short, the benefits must be proportionately greater in a country whose vast extent has been one of the standing difficulties in the way of uniform development and the interlinking of interests between the widely separated provinces in the east and the west.

Rapid means of communication and transportation has been long recognized as an asset which western Canada could be brought into closer business contact with the older provinces and the United States. The advantage of both and the upbuilding of a sense of national unity. The airplane offers to provide this connecting link within the limits of its present carrying capacity, and promises to become a much more effective agent in its development continues.

The Dominion Government is seeking to stimulate public interest in aviation by supplying airplanes where none exists are formed. The League should prove a powerful aid to the same end. It is engaged in all lines of business and in all parts of Canada have been associated with the organization there will result a nation-wide understanding of the ways in which the airplane or the airship can be made to function for business purposes, and a cooperative movement from one end of the country to the other to set it up.

Incidentally, to the extent to which this is done, Canada will develop a fleet of planes, an army of airmen, and plane-building factories which will give the "green work" for an air force should the Dominion again be drawn into war.

The Polite Motorist

By EDGAR E. GUEST

"In spite of what may come to me I'll be a gentleman," said he. "The fact is that safety lies in being polite. We're quickly on the verge of it. It will save us a lot of trouble."

With this declaration good he left his departing neighbor to reach his office in his car. But had not traveled very far before he stopped and waited while three women passed in single file.

He did not feel the going hard. That reached the boulevard. "Now here," thought he, "I'll surely find drivers who are polite and kind. In time some one will tell me to stop and give a chance to me."

Now if you saw him waiting there very cool and dignified. An hour went by, and still the stream of traffic came to a standstill. A search to find the missing road. To cross that busy thoroughfare.

Just came, after all and with the three or four automobiles stuck in the traffic. "I'll try to get a street," he thought. And if he found his way across that road, he's there today.
